MORTON COUNTY SHOULD GET PRIZE

This County Should Enter for 1st Prize at State Exposition.

Letters have been received by the Commercial Club from Commissioner of Agriculture Gilbreath under whose auspices the North Dakota Industrial Exposition is to be held in Bismark, urging that Morton county get busy and arrange to have the best exhibit at the show. No one knows better than Commissioner Gilbreath the wide range of agricultural possibilities that is possessed by Morton county and there is no reason why this county cannot select the best exhibits from the fair which will be held a few days prior to the opening of the exposition and capture the $500. prize to be given for the best county exhibit.

In addition to a first prize there will be four other prizes ranging from $500 down to $50. Commissioner Gilbreath is anxious that Morton county should secure one of the best rooms in the building for its display, which will not only add to the attractiveness but will advertise this county as it should be advertised.—Mandan Pioneer.

Cause of Flax Breaking.

The following circular letter has been issued by Prof. H. L. Bolley of the agricultural college:

"We are receiving many inquiries regarding the cause of flax breaking at or near the ground line. Plants broken off at or near the ground line if eaten off by insects. Such plants are not primarily injured by insects but are attacked by a parasitic fungus which is distributed with the seed both on the exterior and interior. Seed treatment prevents the disease from doing any harm in so far as seed treatment destroys any of the spores that may be on the outside of the seeds but does not prevent plants from becoming diseased which are already internally stacked in the seed. This disease is a strict parasite living only on the flax straw.

"Many farmers whose crops were not harvested last year are becoming much excited this year because they find that where they have reseeded the ground in flax which had flax on last year, the crop is yellowing and breaking over rapidly.

"We tried in every way we could to get information to the farmers of this state that they should not sow flax after flax, especially where there was old straw sowed into the ground.
Those who have violated this law this year discovered that it cannot be done with impunity. Canker is always most destructive in the western part of the state where the land is dryer. This year it is causing considerable destruction in places further east. Wilt does not usually attack the crop severely in the dry soil regions of the western part of the state but here canker is at home and wherever the crop is much thinned out this year, farmers should not think of sowing that land to flax another year for the old stubble and straw will 'sicken' more plants."

NEW BRIDGES FOR MORTON CO.

Morton County to Have Four
New Bridges. Almont
Gets One of Them.

During the past week the county commissioners in session at the court house here, have done a regular business aside from their usual work in which they are interested. Chief of their actions has been the granting of four bridges for various Morton county towns.
They also acted on one road case and four school district petitions for division.

The first of the four bridges was allotted to Almont, where it will span the Curlew creek south of town. Another bridge was given Eight prairie for the Cannonball. At New Leipzig a bridge has been sought for some time but has not been granted. This week a delegation consisting of Editor Schonberger of the New Leipzig Sentinel and Druggist A. Erickson appeared before commissioners and announced that the Milwaukee-road had agreed to furnish the material for a first-class bridge if the county would erect it. This was agreed upon by the commissioners. The last bridge was granted to Shields for the Louse-creek. Out of nine bidders for the construction work, the Fargo Bridge and Iron company was successful. Work will begin immediately.

The road case concerned the Mandan-Sunny road, which, as it says, does not follow the section line, but takes a huge bend around a loop in the heart between Mandan and Sunny. At one time the river flowed around this loop, hence two bridges would have been necessary to run a road across, and at the time the road was built the county was unable to build these bridges, hence the road made the necessary curve to avoid them.

Since that time the Northern Pacific has dug a new channel for the Heart and it flows across, avoiding the loop. This was done to save the company bridging the river, and as the county road is south of the track it goes away with the necessity of bridges for it. Several farmers met the commissioners this week and sought the straightening of the road. It was argued by those opposed that costly dikes, with sewers, would be necessary to cross the slough left by the old bed and the commissioners decided to leave the road as it is for some time, as they did not wish to construct the dikes. The reason for their unwillingness to sink money in the road is that in the near future it may be changed to run north of the track.

The petitions for division by the Leahy, Roosevelt, Stevenson and Valley Forge school districts were granted and they will be divided and new schools erected this fall.

Here's Not a Monopoly.

An editorial appearing in a Cleyenne paper reads:
"It is reported that one of the fastidious newly married ladies of this town kneads bread with her somewhat peculiar—but there are others."

The editor of this paper needs bread with his shoes on; he needs bread with his shirt on; he needs some of his delinquent subscribers pony up before long, he will need

DISSERTATION ON THE SHIRT

Writer Unwears Vests of Wealth in a Few Instances of Unconquerable Modern Garment.

The onward march of civilization has its obstacles.

One being made for men and women, every time a man puts on his shirt for one moment back from the laundry the safety breaks and the emergency clutch to stop us from dropping into the collar again.

Shirts are made of various materials. After the cotton is pressed they are left for a few hours in a strong solution of glue and soda.

This fastens the back to the bosom and sticks the sleeves together. Buttonholes are then made in the cloth and the hand is then steeped in cement so that the buttonholes cannot be opened. The second button is addressed with bottom. These buttons are sewed on with one needle and thread, so that when you try to button the shirt, after having tried it apart with a paper knife and strong language, the buttons will fly away swiftly.

Shirts that are laundered are always sent back with the lower buttons buttoned in, and all the buttonholes glued tight.

These shirts are made with reinforced bosoms, with little round holes where the studs are only supposed to be placed. These bosoms are absolutely inflexible, and the studs cannot be inserted without the aid of a sledge hammer, which is damaging to the disposition.

The man who will invent a buttonless shirt, which cannot be starbared in the westward, will earn a monument which will be illuminated at night.—Chicago Evening Post.

AND READY TO FIGHT AGAIN

Get Refused to Be a Party to Proceedings by Which the Official Died.

Jerry the pet cat of the Stols family of Bloomfield, N. J., considerably startled its mistress when, the other afternoon, it appeared at the kitchen door after having been buried as dead during the course of the preceding forenoon. Jerry is of a warlike disposition, and during a recent combat, sustained such injuries that the family decided to put him out of misery. Accordingly the garbage man was prevailed on to place the pet animal in an old tin boiler, pour in chloroform, and seal on the lid. In a few minutes Jerry was "dead." He was buried and the Stols children covered the grave of their friend and playmate with flowers. But in a few days Mrs. Stols awoke, so when Mrs. Stols opened the kitchen door later, she found him waiting for admittance. Mr. Stols screamed and ran, but his husband set the cat in, and declared he would not permit the warrior to be "killed" again.

Ancient Painters.

Among the Greeks the most famous painters were Cimex of Clieia, Polygrotus, Zeuxis, Apollon, Apollodorus and Parrhasius. Of these the greatest was Zeuxis, who is said to have laughed himself to death over the picture of an old woman that he had painted, and Apollon, who, according to some accounts, painted himself so perfectly that the birds pecked at them, thinking them real. Apollon was a contemporary of Alexander the Great, and was considered by the conqueror of the world to paint his picture. His greatest work was "Venus Rising from the Sea," painted for the Temple of Aphrodite at Sidon, and costing it in gold, over $100,000. It is claimed that no artist was able to complete his unfinished picture, many of which he left at the time of his death.

Up-to-Date Street Beggars.

"Even your street beggars are up to date here in New York," said an observing out-of-town man, who had been a while in the hat of a professional beggar wearing a badge "Victim of the Recent Fire." "I've never known it fail," he continued, "but after the fire, an explosion or any other big accident there was a noticeable change in the appeals made by your street beggars. Another thing, notice his shirtlessness, as he doesn't specify any particular fire, but simply the recent fire. The desire to keep ahead of the times seems to be deep seated in all New Yorkers, and just after some great accident the street beggars are sure to make the most of the situation and make their appeal to the public along the latest lines."

What He Wanted.

It was after the explosion, and Henderson sat on a rail fence gazing ruefully over the scene of ruin. One of his wheels was still rolling onward over the pile. Another hung from the limb of a tree. Other sections of the car were strewn about the highway far and near.

"Ah, no!" sighed Henderson. "I wish that only last night I was in waiting against an assembled car by Jove! It gives $100 to anybody who'll come along at the party and assemble this."—Harpers' Week.

Appropos.

"That's little wisest!" from his uncle came in slowly, didn't it?"

"What did he do with it?"

"The obvious thing. Just as he got the windfall, he found his speaking needed a windbreak."
