"King August" He Did It.

"King August" the Great I Am did it, at least he thought he did it; not like Geo. Washington with his hatchet, but he did it with his mouth and lungs. He thought that the editor's frame was too large of stature, so he took advantage of his surplus stock of wind and did it with his cute (?) little mouth. The editor was in his way—only in the way—for that government position which his little heart has craved for during the past five years—it seemed to be slipping from his grasp. "King August" the Great I Am must get the editor out of the way and that is why he did it. Only a business proposition but the noble August deemed it time to start the fireworks, and the language that he used was something terrific—was this language "King August" the Great I Am used. It would make this paper look blue to the readers were we to publish a part of it, but "King August" the Great I Am took water just like all great men are compelled to do, and only proceeded to administer more wind and the atmosphere became bluer, such was the language used by "King August" the Great I Am. The town was booming to fast for "King August" the Great I Am so he just had to expand his lungs—but dear reader you can thank your lucky stars that you were not present to hear the language used by "King August" the Great I Am. Like the Princes of old "King August" the Great I Am thought that he could rule with strong language but here he failed again. Our business was threatened to destruction, but business places built by "old honesty" are free from wind storm as he has undoubtedly found out. This noble personage even stated that he had paid us $120 while we have only received $85. After the blue flames cleared away and the atmosphere was pure once again, the editor was seen calmly strolling down the street without even a scar, while "King August" the Great I Am explained the "killing" to a few by-standers. Such was the "kill-ling" of "King August" the Great I Am.

Some people just can't leave the "Name" alone.
