What have you found out, is his record good or bed?" he was asked.

"That I cannot tell you," was his answer. "I am making my investigatic for the Progressive League and I cannot break faith by revealing to any one wh I have found before making my report to the officers of the league."

Asked when he would make his report, Mr. Buck said that, his work would lescribed in a series of newspaper articles on Hanus's record and that the first hese would be ready for the league officers to inspect and publish within a few

"Do you think that the league will publish the atjicles!" he was asked.
"I know the articles will be published," said Buck. "I told the league feers that I would undertake the investigation only on condition that it should after and nothesed and that up findings should be published whether they favo or criticized Mr. Hanns. This was agreed to."

It has been whispered here that the inquiry has produced results that
