Arranging for Coming Winter

Some Timely Suggestions for the Busy Agriculturists.

There is only one right time to prepare for winter on the farm. That is before winter comes.

It generally comes with a rush, and we may expect our first snow storm at any time now.

Our first storm is very often one of the most severe, and stock exposed to it suffers more from it as a rule than from any other during the entire winter. They have not become acclimated to it.

The first storm for winter in this territory does not usually mean that the period for grazing is past, nor that the period for winter feeding is here.

But unless some protection is afforded the stock for a few days during the first cold period they shrink enormously and go into winter quarters in a more depleted condition than they would if properly taken care of.

Get Ready Now.

The man who spends his odd hours and days during his next two or three weeks in fixing up the barns, stables and henhouses will be the one who will have his stock in much better condition to go on the grass next spring than if he is not prepared to take care of it during the first cold period this fall.

What stock needs during our winter months is protection from the winds. A warm stable is not as a rule the best stable. In the case of fur coated, short haired animals such as dairy bred cows, and trotting bred horses, it is an advantage to have the stables warmer than for the longer haired, thicker coated animals.

But generally speaking, the best stable for farm live stock is the one through which there are no draughts but still plenty of fresh air. One thickness of good sound boards with the cracks all closed and a good roof, is as warm as is necessary or advisable for the wintering of farm horses and the ordinary stock cattle.

Ventilation.

But an all important thing is to provide plenty of ventilation and light.

There should be enough windows in the barn or stable so that there is no dark corner. They should be so placed that they will throw light in every nook and corner of the entire stable. Dark corners are disease breeders, whether found in a stable or residence.

Then plenty of ventilation should be provided. Some of the more modern barns are fitted with different ventilation systems. But any stable can be well ventilated by the use of windows covered with cotton or burlap instead of glass. These should be so located that the cold air as it sifts through the windows and settles to the floor, will reach all parts of the stable.

There is no more unhealthy stable than one from which a bad odor comes when the door is opened in the morning, or one in which the health of the animals forms at the top in the form of frost and then drips when a warm day comes.

To house stock in such a stable is to court tuberculosis, pneumonia and other serious troubles.

Two or three windows covered with cotton or burlap will avoid all of this. The cold air sifts through the cloth and being colder than the air inside the stable, drops to the floor, passes along the floor and as it is warmed by the heat from the animals, rises to the ceiling and passes out again.

Now is the time to see that the stables are properly battened, any broken mangers or stalls repaired, the windows put into condition, & the stable thoroughly prepared for use when the first snow storm comes.

Hen-House.

How many chickens will be lost or crippled during the first cold snap this fall?

How many are now roosting out of doors simply because the hen-house is so full of filth and lice or possibly so dirty that they cannot stand it inside?

[Concluded next week.]

LOCAL RESUME

The Doings of Yourselves and Others Weekly.

R. H. Rich of the Heart River country, transacted business in this place, Saturday morning.

Ross Sherwood is in Blomberg a few days this week, taking in the big industrial exposition.

Misses Mary Timmerman and Manda Nelson are spending a few days at the exposition at Blomberg.

Henry Penning of New Salem, traveling auditor for the Mailford Mercantile Co., was in Almont business visitor, Tuesday.

P. Nelson left Monday morning for a business trip to Carson and other points in southern Morton county.

There is considerable talk in the western part of the county against any form or plan of county division on account of the additional burden of taxation it would entail.

Dr. Gnebe of New Salem was summoned to the home of H. H. Templeton, Friday afternoon on account of the serious illness of one of the children, which was suffering an attack of tonsillitis. At the time we go to press the child is reported considerably improved.

Norton county's exhibit at the industrial show at Blomberg is one of the very best there.

A prominent socialist, at present out for candidate Lester of Morton is in Almont, to hold a socialist meeting. (He succeeds no better than the last member of his party, he will undoubtedly get a frost.)

Myr. Fred Holritz was a game mark visitor a couple of days this week.

Much concern and worry has been caused by the great amount of rain that has fallen and destroyed considerable grain as well as delayed the threshing. Even when the weather is like the lack of sun makes it impossible to get as much done as in other years.

A report comes from the capital that a part of the Morton county exhibit has been stolen and that no trace of the perpetrator of the theft has been found—but the thief is gone.

Big Chief Bull Moose rather presented the question asked of him by the Senate investigation committee of expense contribution.

TURKS READY TO FIGHT BALKANS

BULGARIA, SERVIA AND GREECE MOBILIZING THEIR ARMIES FOR CLASH.

LIBERTY OF MACEDONIA.

This Greek-occupied Balkan Area Shows of Awaiting Trouble Said to Be Up in Powers.

London, Oct. 2.—The Balkan situation has developed with alarming rapidity in a point where only a spark is needed to set the whole of southeastern Europe ablaze.

Three of the Balkan states, by common consent, have ordered the simultaneous mobilization of their armies. They are making every preparation for immediate hostilities.

Two possible explanations are offered, the first, that a coalition of the Greek and Serbian armies for the purpose of demanding from Turkey, Bulgaria has the time to conclude peace with Italy, the grant of complete autonomy in the Macedonia.

The second, that Turkey will seek an armistice from her difficulties at home and abroad in war, they are preparing themselves for a possible attack.

Everything now seems to depend on whether the great powers will be able to bring sufficient pressure to bear to prevent the outbreak of hostilities and preserve the status quo in the Balkans.

Mexico's developments appear likely to confirm the existence of a military understanding between Bulgaria, Serbia, Greece and Montenegro directed against Turkey.

Russia Offers Remedy.

St. Petersburg.—The mobilization of the armies of Bulgaria, Serbia and Greece will mean immediate war, according to the belief held in political circles here.

It is understood that Russia has taken an adequate view of the crisis in the Balkans and has proposed the radical remedy of putting into effect Article 23 of the Treaty of Berlin, providing for intervention in the European provinces of Turkey of a statute giving a measure of self government and a provincial council general government by the provinces.

Russia's proposals were communicated to Turkey. Great Britain showed unwillingness to talk reform in Turkey was unwilling to accept anything less than a complete reorganization.

France's answer is due at once and is expected to be a hot and more conservative, being dictated mainly by considerations of finance.

A Declaration of War.

Vienna.—News of the mobilization in the Balkan states has caused great excitement here. The Italian and Serbian ministers declared that the mobilization of the armies of the respective countries would be the reply to the mobilization of the Turkish troops, but they added, it should not be regarded as a declaration of war because it was possible for Turkey to withdraw its troops from the frontier districts.

Preparations for War.

Budapest, Servia.—War preparations are being carried on with feverish haste. General mobilization of the Serbian army has been ordered. The mobilization of news of military movements is forbidden.

A certain oriental, speaking from faint knowledge - of human nature, feared that with riches one would forget God. Had he been a monotheist, he would equally have feared the forgetfulness of one's wife and God. No man can begin with difficulty carry out his plan of life. He is apt to consider himself as an honorable citizen.
 But on no lasting basis are things done. He is equally apt to be "Good heavens!" he said, "this is not my partner. This is Mr. Parks."

The infuriated woman slapped the maid's face, pushed her out of the room, locked the door and turned to me, her eyes again shimmering. "Beat it!" she said.
