RAILWAYS TO USE WESTERN COAL

Lignite Will Soon Take Important Position

An experimental station in the charge of a department of the University of North Dakota at Grand Forks, has worked out a process which makes it possible for railway engines to use lignite coal. This development means that western railroads will use western coal and this makes a market for the immense deposits of coal in North Dakota.

The Chicago & Northwestern, and the Burlington railways are now making practical tests upon forty locomotives in actual service, and if the practice proves up with laboratory tests, then the railways will be able to make great saving in their fuel accounts.

Railroad coal in the western portions of this state and in western Nebraska, Wyoming and Colorado ranges from $5 to $6 a ton, while lignite can be bought at this time, at $1.75 a ton.

The experiments are of great value not only to the railroads operating in the west, but also to the states of North and South Dakota.

Jewish Farmers in North Dakota

Since time immemorial, the Jew has been the middleman and the money lender. Reason for this is found in the laws of other countries which have discouraged him in going back to the land. In many countries, the Jew is forbidden to own real estate. In the United States this condition does not exist and he is given every opportunity to acquire and hold real estate.

A general survey of this country shows the readiness of that sturdy race in availing themselves of the chance to go back to the soil; for there are now 7000 heads of families owning farms and a total of 37,000 Jews engaged in agriculture in the U. S. Of the various states containing this group of agriculturists, North Dakota stands fourth on the list. This high rank of this state is due to several Jewish colonies have settled in the western part of the state.

Home Locals

Mr. and Mrs. Earl D. Calvert of Bismarck, arrived here the latter part of last week, to visit Mr. and Mrs. L. I. Stoeckel for a few days. Mr. Calvert returned to Bismarck, Sunday, but his wife remained for a few more days.

The stock of goods of the Almont Hardware company was sold to the Blingenheimer Mercantile company of Sweet Bialer and Judson, and the goods shipped to those places the fore part of the week.

E. Howland, representing the Fargo Wholesale Grocery, transacted business with Almont merchants, Tuesday afternoon. He left on No. 7 for points further to the west.

O. O. Chamberlain has leased the small office building next the old drug store and will keep bachelor's hall on Main street.

E. B. Templeton transacted business with Almont Tuesday.

Have Herbs in The Garden

No garden is complete without some of the herbs. Among the best are mint, sage, annis, coriander, dill and winter savory. Directions for sowing these are given, as a rule, on the package in which the seeds come. The seed may be sown in boxes or flats early in the spring; and, as soon as the plants are large enough, they may be transplanted to a permanent place in the garden. One-year-old plants of most of these herbs can be purchased from any nursery, which if you have not the time and place for flats or boxes, will save some time. These herbs can be grown quite successfully in the Slope, as the Dutch Syndicate colony at Belvidere has amply demonstrated. At that place it is difficult to find a garden that does not contain a little space set aside for these herbs.

BIG BOOSTING FUND

Missouri is about to launch into a great publicity campaign to persuade its farmers to remain in the state and to persuade other farmers to go there. A fund of $100,000 dollars will be handled by civic and commercial organizations and the country will be flooded with Missouri literature. All ready circulars are being printed to inform the world that in the last year or two more silos have been built in the hour's dog commonwealth than in any other state in the Union. The circular also explains that the farmers have to send hundreds of miles for experts and materials to build the silos.

If these same civic organizations would perfect a scheme by which the cities would leave more money in the rural banks to finance the farmer and help him develop his business there would not be so much need of a $100,000 boost fund to keep the farmer from migrating to more attractive fields. However, Canada has demonstrated that it pays to advertise for the soil tiler, and there is no doubt but that many Western states will have to do likewise to stem the tide that is flowing over the Dominion's borders.

Made a Pleasant Time

The post-Lenten social season opened in Almont with a delightful dance Tuesday evening, April 1st. The arrangements for the dance had been so carefully worked out that everything was carried out without hitch or delay, and the dance continued until near four o'clock. The orchestra composed of Miss Allen, L. Wang and C. Patterson, from Hebron, furnished excellent music. All who attended were well pleased with the dance and have expressed a wish for another dance to be given under the management of Messrs. Forsblad and Nelson. Among the numerous out of town guests were Misses Anna Wang and Florence Dean of Hebron.

P. J. Thomas who has been in the employ of the state as barber at the penitentiary, returned to Almont, Wednesday, and went his farm near this place, Thursday.

This afternoon John Sharff will have an auction sale of a lot of his personal property.

John Behm of Bismarck, N. D., was looking after business in this village the first of the week.

FARMERS' FORWARD MOVEMENT

Big Conference Called, --of National Importance

The great national conference of farmers that has been called to meet at Chicago April 8-10, is one of the most important gatherings in the history of American agriculture. It is important not only to the farmers themselves, but to the people at large. Farm fairs have been for long far too unsatisfactory; and methods of transportation of farm produce, and marketing conditions in general, entirely unsuitable for the greatest good of both producers and consumers of the food supply of the nation. On the opening day the subject for discussion will be Distribution, on the second day marketing, and on the third day Farm Finance.

This conference has been called by the farm press of the country and will mark another mile post in the farmers' forward movement. At no time has there been so much interest taken in the cost of living, at no time have the people been so ready to adopt measures which are designed to work out the relief of the situation. No one is accusing farmers of getting too much, as it is a well-known fact that the proportion of the final price paid by the consumer that the farmer gets is very small indeed. What the farmer needs is better financial facilities, which will allow him to produce with greatest economic advantage. What the common good demands is a better system of distribution, less expensive transportation, less waste in marketing. The farmers believe that organized effort is needed to bring about any improvement in conditions, and feel that the financial questions should be settled first and then that the question of distribution and marketing will be easier of solution.

Boys Return to the Farm

The future development of North Dakota will depend upon the soundness of her educational policy and the thoroughness with which it is carried out. We have been educating our boys and girls for nearly everything but farming. While, not the first to establish a trade school of agriculture, with the great aim of training farmers for the farm North Dakota has made great progress. For twenty-five years that school has been sending out young men and women who know how to be better citizens, to do better farming, and make better farm homes.

Seventy-two per cent of all the Farm School students of agriculture have gone back to the farm. The figure is increased to 80 per cent or four-fifths of all, if we add to those who go back to the farm, those who take up agricultural courses in the college or in some other way identify themselves with agriculture. It should be remembered that those figures include not only the students who came from the farms, but many girls as well as boys who come from the adjacent states. If we exclude them, we should find that almost 100 per cent of the farm boys who come to the Farm School return to the farm.

N. E. Becklund was a Mandan visitor Tuesday and Wednesday of this week.

Laying Out the Garden

If possible, the garden should be close to or a part of a cultivated field, and so laid out that it can be cultivated by horse-power. It is preferable to run the rows the long way of the garden, and to so plan it that vegetables of similar growth shall be together; for it is easier to cultivate if the rows are the same distance apart. Room for turning must be left at the end of the rows. The perennials, such as asparagus, rhubarb and the fruits, should be placed at one side, so as not to interfere with cultivation.

Also when planning the garden, set apart a small piece of ground for the purpose of growing a few of the hardier flowers for summer use as there is nothing prettier to look upon than a garden full of bright blooming flowers.

FLORICULTURE

We ought to grow more poppies. If a brilliant show of color is wanted—one that is rich in tone without being in the least coarse—nothing will produce it more effectively than the Shirley strain of this flower. To secure most pleasing results sow thickly and broadcast. Do this, and you will get the effect of a self-sown plant, which will be far more satisfactory than that resulting from sowing this plant in beds or rows. The less primness and formality in its culture the better says Ellen E. Rexford to Farm and Home.

The great double poppy, with fringed petals, is, to the annual flower garden, what the peony is to the collection of perennials. And the oriental variety, with its enormous flowers as magnificent in coloring as in size, deserves a place in the border, where it can do more than any other plant I can think of just now, to make the garden glorious in summer. Cover its roots well with leaves, in the fall, and it will prove quite handy in the north.

The "branching" variety of aster is far and away the best of its family for cutting. This kind has flowers of good size and perfect form, each one borne on a stalk a foot or more in length. This makes it easy to do effective work with it in vases and bouquets. I would advise three colors only—pale pink, pure white, and delicate lavender. These colors, either singly or in combination, are always sure to please, and so delicate are they in tone and general effect, that they take away our liking for the varieties of stronger color, to a great extent. They harmonize so charmingly that one never tires of them. The same is true of the sweet pea. If we confine our selection of colors to pink, white, lavender and pale yellow. Grow these delicately tinted sorts, and you will not care for the dark reds, blues and purples.

W. D. Wagoner who recently disposed of his farm eight miles south of Almont, and purchased a large tract in Florida, arrived here Sunday last and went into the country to look after his personal property. He will remain here for several days or until he can sell his farm equipment.

Alf Jensen, Anderson, announces that he will grind feed in Almont, only on odd days when he cannot work in the fields. adv. 71.

CO-OPERATIVE MARKETING

Has Proven to Be A Great Success

Co-operative stores have been conducted successfully in Wisconsin for the last 30 years, but only within two years have they become at all numerous, under the excellent new law. At present there are 17 successful co-operative stores with a total membership of about 7500, an authorized capital stock of $900,000, and cash capital actually paid in of $400,000. These stores employ 150 clerks and their volume of business for 1912 exceeds $1,508,000.

All goods are sold at the same prices charged by other retailers. After setting aside interest at five per cent on capital, and suitable reserves, the profits are rebated as dividends upon purchases. Share holders get full dividend, which equals 5 to 10 per cent saving, while nonmembers get only half dividend or none.

The early co-operative stores in Wisconsin found hard sledding because of the lack of co-operation spirit, limited capital, the collapse of the early organized farm and labor movement, lack of business knowledge and practice among the co-operators, lack of wholesale houses from which the retail co-operative stores could obtain their supplies.

Elements of success. All co-operative stores in America, as in England, thrive best when they adhere to the Rochdale principles.

1. Sell goods at current market prices. This prevents friction with the local merchants. It avoids the "go-broke" error of selling at cost plus expense.

2. Begin small, grow slowly but surely as experience points the way and as the managers and members learn to work together.

3. Co-operation is not a new way of transacting business, but rather a different method of dividing the fruits of industry. The same principles that govern success, when acquiring profit in capitalistic enterprises, apply with even greater force to the management of co-operative effort.

J. P. Morgan Is Dead.

News despatches from Rome, Italy, announce the death of John Pierpont Morgan, financier, who passed away at noon, March 31st, after a brief illness. Dr. Allen Starr of New York attributes the death to the emotion caused by the inquiry of the Pujo committee, into Mr. Morgan's relations to the "money trust." The body will be brought to New York for interment. He left a fortune valued at $300,000,000.

Many comments have been made about the excellent streets in Almont. There is a possibility for the Builders being called into the service of the Good Roads Club to give expert advice.

Improve Your Potatoes

It has been demonstrated that the selection of the best tubers, regardless of bills, results in higher yields of the potatoes than the selection of the best hills as ordinarily done.

The tuber-unit method may, however, give still better results. One carefully selected tuber is used as a starting-point, or many may be similarly treated if desired. The tuber selected is cut lengthwise into four pieces from which four hills are grown. If many tubers are used, the best groups of four hills, each from a single tuber should be selected at digging time for use in planting the next year. Keep each group separate and decide which is the best principally on the basis of the yield and the desirability of the tubers. Selection is continued from year to year by saving as many as possible of the tubers from the best groups.

Puller directions for the use of this method of potato improvement may be found in Bulletin 251 of the Agricultural Experiment Station at Ithaca, New York, or Circular 113 of the Bureau of Plant Industry, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

State Money For Silos

So great is the need for silos that bills have been introduced in the legislatures of Nebraska to loan $500,000 on real estate security and in Oklahoma for a "loan" of $2,500,000 to provide small loans for building silos. Whether or not these measures become law, they show a determination to provide money for farmers on real estate security at a moderate rate of interest. The silo is generally recognized as a very important part of the equipment on any farm where several head of stock are kept. It makes it possible to get the most value from the corn crop, to carry a larger amount of stock, to feed them at a lower cost than in any other way.

Eugene Julius Ramsland

Sunday afternoon, March 30, at 1:30 o'clock, Eugene Julius, the youngest child of Mr. and Mrs. O. M. Ramsland, was buried at Almont. The child was born Nov. 13, and was a strong healthy child until only a few days ago when it was stricken with pneumonia. It passed away at two o'clock, Thursday afternoon, March 27. The entire community sympathizes with the bereaved parents.

and Foreign Countries.

CONGRESS

President Wilson is giving serious consideration to the question of formal recognition of the Chinese republic.

The nomination of John Burke, former governor of North Dakota, as treasurer of the United States, has been sent to the senate by President Wilson.

Another parade in Washington is being planned by the executive committee of the National American Woman Suffrage association for April 7, when the extra session of congress convenes.

President Wilson, in a statement approved by his cabinet after two hours of discussion, announced that his administration had declined to request a group of American bankers to continue their negotiations for participation in the $125,000,000 loan desired by the Chinese government.

The extra session of congress called by President Wilson to assemble April 7, will do nothing but the tariff revision bill before it. This fact was made clear in a statement by Representative Oscar W. Underwood, chairman of the house committee on ways and means. Until tariff legislation is well under way in the house, no general committees will be named and no other legislative subjects will be taken up.

Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, in a letter made public, indicates the candidacy of Frank H. Gerhart, executive candidate for mayor of St. Louis, at the April election. Mr. Gerhart is a national politician and a democrat.

More than sixty persons are reported killed and hundreds wounded, some mortally, by a storm of tropical intensity which raged over central, western, southern and part of eastern states recently. Property damage will run well into the millions.

Leo D. Varian, a waiter, of Buffalo, N. Y., must pay a fine of $400 or begin to serve 180 days in the penitentiary, the heaviest sentence ever imposed on a "masquerade" Varian was convicted of pressing unwelcome attentions on a 16-year-old girl.

Reports from the Other Stricken Cities Add to Horror of Worst Disaster in Nation's History.

Huntington, W. Va., April 1.—(Via telephone to Pittsburgh.)—This city in total darkness last night, in facing both a food and water famine, 15,000 out of the 40,000 inhabitants are homeless, 12 persons are reported missing, and the property damage, according to close estimates of leading business men, will amount to nearly $1,000,000. The river has reached a stage of 82.2 feet, the highest in the history of Huntington, and remains stationary.

Fire Report Discarded.

Reports reaching here from various West Virginia points that the city was afire, are believed incorrect. Huntington, however, has been out of fire all communication.

The entire business section is inundated, water being up to the second floor of all buildings. Numbers of houses have been wrecked, and their occupants have been forced to seek refuge in houses in the surrounding country. Governor H. D. Hatfield has sure is feasible, but growing stronger as looks are checked.

The main sanitary sewer is in operation, although many of the houses, loading from houses are clogged with mud or backed-up water.

The flood sewers, separate from the sanitary, will be in operation today. These sewers carry off the material from the gutters and are needed now to remove the water being pumped from basements.

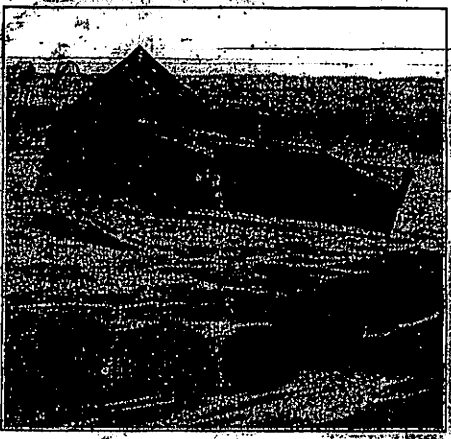

Wire Service Improving.

Telegraph service is fast measuring up with requirements— which have been, and are still, enormous.

No braver services have been performed than those by the telegraph and telephone linesmen who made possible the dissemination of news to hundreds of thousands of friends and relatives of Daytonians. They waded and swam by floods and entered tottering buildings unhesitatingly in the pursuit of their duty.

There are 8,000 houses which it will be necessary to reconstruct, and the city is now building new structures. The citizens' relief committee, on advice from engineers, had much worse than had been expected.

"Money is needed most of all," so according to Mayor Kreutzler.

The known dead at Peru number eight.

Reconstruction Work On.
Columbus, Ohio.—Reconstruction of the West Side of Columbus, where the flood of last Tuesday wrought the heaviest damage, has begun to be carried out by the inundated citizens of that district with the assistance of more fortunate residents.

Twelve more bodies have been recovered from the debris, but many of them have been identified as persons previously reported dead, so that the Columbus death list still remains at 84.

While householders were busy clearing away the wreckage from their homes, while militiamen cleared the principal streets of the dead bodies of animals and debris, and relief committees continued their care of the homeless, plans were being made for the prevention of a similar catastrophe.

Property Loss $4,000,000.

Hamilton, Ohio.—Secretary Garrison of the war department, who is visiting the flood-stricken area as the personal representative of President Wilson, visited Hamilton Sunday, coming over from Cincinnati by automobile. He expressed his sympathy for the stricken people and his confidence in the situation here is being handled by the citizens and Ohio National guard has been announced that he would telegraph President Wilson that nothing needed for the present emergency is lacking.

The secretary was told that the death list here will not number more than 80, with the property loss estimated at $1,000,000.

5,000 Ransomed Homeless.

Parkersburg, W. Va.—The crest of the Ohio river flood reached here with a stage of 85.5 feet, six feet higher than the record of 1913. The river is receding slowly. Two companies of militia are guarding the town.

Bellefonte, 18 miles away, is practically empty and the people are camping on the hills above the town. It is reported that several lives have been lost.

Two lives is the toll of the flood waters in Parkersburg. The damage is forecast. Fully 5,000 persons are homeless here and at Bolivar and Bellefonte.

Illinois Threatened.

Springfield, Ill.—Illinois threatens to become the center of flood distress. Starting messages have been received by Governor Duane and Adjutant General Dickson, indicating that Shawnee and Cairo are in immediate danger of being washed off the map. Other towns are in distress.

Governor Duane has sent a rush-order for 1,000 troops to proceed by special train to Cairo, Memphis and Paducah. The governor, from Sheriff Pryor and Mayor Parsons of Cairo, is sending a dispatch to the adjutant general, saying: "The flood is here, the levees are breaking, and the lives of thousands of people are in danger. We need your help."

Illinois bodies were found in Brookville and six still are missing. The flood struck that town Monday night with such violence that all lives were swept away and bridges wiped out. An communication was had with the flood-stricken world until a courier was sent back to bring reports to Cincinnati, following a rapid fall in the flood tide.

COLD IN THE HEAD

Is the First Chapter in the History of Chronic Disease.

A cold in the head is the first chapter in the history of disease and death. This has been so often repeated that there are few people indeed who have not witnessed many examples of it.

A cold in the head is rarely severe enough to make a vigorous person to the house. As a rule, it ends in recovery without any treatment. This has led many people to regard a cold in the head as of no importance. It is a terrible mistake, however, to pass by a cold in the head as a trivial matter. Every case should be treated.

Those who have used Peruna for such cases will testify unanimously that a few doses are sufficient to remove every vestige of the cold. How much better it is to treat a cold in this way than to allow it to go on and on for weeks, perhaps months, leaving effects that will never be eradicated. For there are those who neglect to take Peruna for a cold in the head. This neglect is due to the false notion that a cold in the head is hardly worth holding.

A cold in the head is in reality a case of acute catarrh. It ought to be called so, in order to awaken people from their lethargy on this subject. In a large per cent of cases cold in the head will end in chronic catarrh. Unless properly treated with some such remedy as Peruna, perhaps 50 per cent of cases of cold in the head will lay the foundation for chronic catarrh.

A tablespoonful of Peruna should be taken at the very first symptom of cold in the head. Usually when the cold is not very severe a tablespoonful of Peruna before each meal and at bed time is sufficient. It may be necessary, however, when the attack is more serious, to keep strictly to the house and take a tablespoonful of Peruna every hour. Younger people, feeble or delicate women, should take a teaspoonful every hour.

Lamentable Ignorance.

His Deceased Relative.

Mrs. Boynton noticed that her colored gardener was wearing mourning clothes.

"I see you have met with a loss, Henry," she said, placing at the hand of craps on his hat.

"Yes, ma'am," was the reply.

"Was it a near or a distant relative?" inquired the lady.

"No, ma'am, it was a distant one," said Henry.

"About twenty-five miles, ma'am."

ONLY DOUBTFUL CITIZEN.

"Everybody is telling exactly what you will do if you are elected to office."

"Yes."

"Well, what will you do?"

"I don't know yet."

FLY TO PIECE.

The Effect of Coffee on Highly Organized People.

"I have been a coffee user for years, and about two years ago got into a very bad habit of drinking coffee and indigestion. It seemed to me I would fly to pieces. I was so nervous, that at the least noise I was distressed, and my nerves could not straighten myself up because of the pain."

"Tea is just as injurious, because it contains caffeine, the same drug found in coffee."

"My physician told me I must not eat any heavy or strong food, and ordered a diet, giving me some medicine. I followed directions carefully, but kept on using coffee and did not get any better."

"Last winter my husband, who was away on business, had Postum served to him in the hotel where he boarded. He liked it so well that when he came home he brought some with him. We began using it and I found it

"While I drank it my stomach never bothered me in the least, and I got over my nervous troubles. When the Postum was gone I returned to coffee, and my stomach began to hurt as before, and the nervous condition came back."

"The doctor said that what was the cause of the whole trouble, was I quit drinking coffee altogether and began drinking Postum. The doctor's advice was followed and my nervous troubles left and I have never returned."

"There's a reason," and it is explained in the little book, "The Road to Well-Being, in Plain English."

Send for this little book. It is a new one, and appears from time to time. There are many who have been cured of their nervous troubles, and all who are interested.

The train brought supplies, motor boats and shells. The motor boats and shells, now being taken through the different sections of the city to rescue hundreds who are marooned. The local military company has taken charge of the rescue work and is pushing it forward just as rapidly as conditions will permit.

Situation at Dayton.

Dayton, Ohio, March 31.—Here is the problem presented to flood-swept Dayton, as summarized by George F. Burke, secretary to Governor Cox, who is representing the governor:

"Forty thousand persons must be fed, clothed and housed for a week more. Twenty thousand persons must be cared for indefinitely. These are persons who lost their all when their household goods were swept away. They must be provided with a few necessary household articles, such as bedding, pots and pans, moves and a few dollars. A half-million dollars could be used in this way by the relief committee."

Nine hundred houses and other structures, or what remains of them, must be pulled down and the debris removed.

Thousands of tons of debris must be removed.

of martial law over Dayton was extended to take in the whole county yesterday. The flood did more than sweep away property, for it swept away the city administration, temporarily at least, and brought in what amounts to a commission form of government.

Immediately after martial law was proclaimed, the municipal administration was collapsed. Adjutant General Wood, for the moment, became supreme under the governor.

Coroner J. W. McKenny estimated that 100 bodies have been recovered, though there are records of only 72. He said many had been buried without usual official action and that in many cases he did not expect to get records.

Hundreds of persons suffering from diphtheria are at the Miami Valley hospital. Seven of them were caught in a house with a person who had recently become ill with the disease. Four persons huddled in with one who had measles are suffering with that disease.

There are two hospitals here. St. Elizabeth's is flooded on the first floor, so all sick and injured were taken to the Miami Valley hospital.

On the Miami Valley hospital, there are 15,000 residents, which will be necessary to plant and after before they can be occupied. There are 4,500 houses which it will decided that this reconstruction work will require four months, even if building material can be obtained promptly.

Disease Follows Flood.

Indianapolis.—Central Indiana is summoning its medical forces to fight disease which is following in the wake of the devastating flood which swept through the state.

A member of the state board of health asserts that the flood's toll of lives in this state probably will be exceeded. Scores of persons in all walks of life have been huddled in small huts and buildings for days.

They have been forced to live like sheep and a pestilence is feared. Thousands of persons will continue to be huddled until their residences have been cleaned of the filth left by the receding waters and fumigated. A majority of these refugees have no clothing except what they wore when the flood descended.

Thousands Homeless.

While the residents of the river banks in the cities of the state are facing a problem of sanitation, the cities along the Ohio river are preparing for the worst. Good sanitary conditions are being maintained, but the cities have been driven from the bottom lands and the property damage runs into the millions.

Money Is Needed in Peru.

Peru, Ind.—While no additional reports of deaths were received here, the general relief committee, headed by Mayor John Kreutzler, inspected the flooded district and found conditions much worse than had been expected.

"Money is needed most of all," so according to Mayor Kreutzler.

The known dead at Peru number eight.

Reconstruction Work On.

Columbus, Ohio.—Reconstruction of the West Side of Columbus, where the flood of last Tuesday wrought the heaviest damage, has begun to be carried out by the inundated citizens of that district with the assistance of more fortunate residents.

Twelve more bodies have been recovered from the debris, but many of them have been identified as persons previously reported dead, so that the Columbus death list still remains at 84.

While householders were busy clearing away the wreckage from their homes, while militiamen cleared the principal streets of the dead bodies of animals and debris, and relief committees continued their care of the homeless, plans were being made for the prevention of a similar catastrophe.

The secretary was told that the death list here will not number more than 80, with the property loss estimated at $1,000,000.

5,000 Ransomed Homeless.
