Frozen By Fish Power.

A Tale About Making Ice Cream In Nova Scotia.

Not all the fish preparators live in the United States, according to the Mariner's Advocate. An editor recently received the following letter:

"I have read an interesting account of singing fish in your paper. It recalled to me the memory of a rather remarkable fish we have in Nova Scotia. It is known as the 'frost fish,' because it may be frozen like a lump of ice, but if placed in water in that condition it soon thaws out and swims around as vigorously as ever. The natives make use of this property, and make ice cream. The fish is caught, frozen and placed in the cream. In thawing out it freezes the cream, and its movements at the same time beat the mixture, making it smooth."

"Taking them by and large, from Moosehead lake to Fliegel sound & from the upper Mississippi to the gulf, we have some capable and industrious fish lars in this country. But we hand the red and roe over to the States."

MAKING the ZOONIC HEALTHFUL

by E.W. PICKARD

Ancon, C. Z.—All the world gives to Col. W. C. Gorcy officer, and his assistants full credit for the wonderful work they have accomplished in making the Panama canal zone healthful and keeping it so. All the world that knows gives credit for greater credit to these American, Italian and English doctors and soldiers who sacrificed their health and in some cases their lives to prove that yellow fever and malaria, the two scourges of tropical America, are transmitted by the bite of mosquitoes. It is not my intention to tell over again the latter story. The devotion of those brave men actually made possible the building of the Panama canal, for their work has been taken in full advantage of by Colonel Gorcy and his forces, and the zone is now one of the most healthful places on the world.

Before the coming of the Americans the isthmus was a veritable pest-hole. The French canal builders and their workmen and the laborers on the Panama railway died like flies, usually of malaria or yellow fever. Today a fatal case of malaria is as rare as the more malignant form being almost unknown, and not a single case of yellow fever has originated in the zone in several years.

The Stegomyia mosquito, the yellow fever breeder, has not been exceedingly rare to exterminate because it breeds and lives only near human habitations. When the Americans had substituted a regular water system and underground sewers for the rain water barrels and the open ditches in Colon, Panama and the other towns, and had fumigated all the dwellings, Stegomyia was practically extinct. That job of fumigating ing, by the way, raised a great row among the ignorant inhabitants of Panama. They could not understand why they should all moved out into the street and their houses filled with evil-smelling fumes, and they were inclined to offer forcible resistance until the zone police took the matter in hand.

Much more difficult has been the task of eradicating malaria, for the Anopheles mosquito, which makes a specialty of carrying this disease, is widespread and of several varieties. It is the female only that bites, and she needs blood—preferably of her eggs. The eggs are deposited in a slow moving or stationary water and hatch out into little larvae or "wigglers." At least once in two minutes the larva must come to the surface to breathe, and that is where the sanitation department gets it, usually.

As one wanders about the zone he sees at the headwaters of every stream, ditch or other water course, at frequent intervals along its banks, and at the edge of every pool, a big tin can or keg. From this tin can or kegs there is a constant drip of larvicide, a black, oily-looking compound of crude carbolic acid, stannic oxide and yeast. This spreads out over the water, an insecticide film, and when little Anopheles larvae comes up for air he meets a swift death. To replenish these cans of larvicide a small army of Jamaicans is kept traveling about the zone, and there are small tanks of the compound strapped on their backs, spraying every pool they come to.

Another measure of exterminating the mosquito is the straightening and clearing of water courses so that their flow will be free swift for the Anopheles. The work of draining and filling has been extensive and near the Pacific end of the canal has resulted in the reclamation of large tracts of land for building habitations. New Ideas for Handy Boys

A NEW WHIP BOW AND A NEW CROSS-BOW.

Home-made floss firearms can be productive of much fun in the backyard of a school boy, and with home-made targets to shoot at a boy needs but practice to attain an accuracy of aim that will make him expert in the handling of them.

The whip bow and the cross bow are two harmless weapons that are popular among boys, and in the illustrations you will find a new form of each which I have devised for you.

The whip bow which the boy is shown using in Fig. 1 differs from the ordinary kind in the whiplash. This is made elastic by inserting several rubber bands as shown in Fig. 2, which makes it possible to string the arrow at a greater distance than can be done with the cord lash, as it gives it the qualities of an elastic "whip shot."

For the whip handle take any sprightly stick about 2 feet long—a small tree branch will do, and notch it near one end as shown in Fig. 3. To receive the white lash, a stout cord will do for the lash. Fasten two or three rubber bands together by looping them end to end, and tie the about two-thirds of the length of the cord to one end and the other third to the other end. After tying the cord to the whip handle tie a hard knot at the free end.

Arrows can be cut of any straight-grained wood. Fig. 3 shows a good form of arrow cut from a shingle. If you can find a shingle you can make several arrows out of the one piece. The head of the arrow is cut on the top edge, as far as the notch, and the tail on the thin end. The shaft of the arrow must be notched to receive the whiplash; and this must be at the same place as far as the notch is concerned. By holding the arrow across the edge of your knife blade and sliding it one way or the other until it balances, the notch should stand in the direction of the arrow head.

To string the arrow, slip the end of the whiplash into the notch and draw it through as far as the knot. Then holding the tail of the arrow in the left hand and the whip bow in the right hand, as shown in Fig. 1, string out your right arm full length and at the same time release the hold on the arrow. The arrow can be shot high into the air, or straight up, or you may shoot it three-fourths of the way down, or you may shoot it so that it will make a new record, but with practice you should be able to string your arrows a considerable distance.

The new form of cross bow shown in Fig. 4 requires two pieces of lath for the barrel, a barrel hoop for the trigger, a small nail or brad, and two heavy rubber bands. Cut the stock (A) about 18 inches long, and from the shape shown in Fig. 5. It requires a piece three-eighths inch in thickness from each side of the small end (D) as shown, to receive the ends of the barrel pieces D. Block C

The KITCHEN CABINET

It is the shadow of life that makes the beauty of life. —Crane.

SEASONABLE DISHES.

Make three-inch cubes of bread, broil with melted butter in a hot oven. Fill with salmon and peas creamed together.

Raspberry and Currant Conserves—Cover two boxes of currants with water. Stir and strain. Add a box of stewed and strained raspberries, a cup of stoned raisins, a cup of almonds chopped, and pulp and juice of one orange. Put in fruit and cook slowly until it fills. Pour into glass jars, cover with oil, and keep in a cool, dark place.

Spiced Ham Sandwiches—Spread cooled ham slices chopped on buttered bread, arrange like sandwiches, dip in egg and milk and fry a golden brown in butter. Serve with tomato salad.

Biscuity Cakes—Cream a tablespoonful of butter, add a cupful of sugar, and beat well five minutes, add two teaspoonfuls of baking powder sifted with two cupfuls of flour; add at the last a pint of well-sifted blueberries. Bake in a hot and serve warm with butter.

Fried Chicken—Fry the pieces of chicken until brown in butter, then add a cupful of boiling water and mix with water to make a gravy. Remove the cover from the pan and cook down and re-brown. The gravy is especially nice when chicken is cooked this way.

Ginger Cobbler—Cut in dice one pared cucumber; slice two oranges and three lemons, sprinkle with a cupful of powdered sugar; add a cupful of currant juice and put on ice for two hours. Add two quarts of ginger ale and a cup of sugar syrup. Place a block of ice in a punch bowl and pour over the mixture, garnish with raspberries and serve with water.

Peach Delicacy—Fill tall glasses with peach ice cream, add sufficient raspberry juice to color and run down through the cream; on top place a spoonful of sweetened and flavored ice cream. Garnish with a few fresh raspberries or a maraschino cherry.

CURRY DISHES.

Curry is a combination of condiments and seeds, which is highly thought-of in the Orient, and which is used in many dishes in America, with a growing liking.

Curry of Mutton—Fry one large onion cut fine, in two tablespoonfuls of butter. Mix one tablespoonful of curry powder, one teaspoonful of salt, one-half teaspoonful of turmeric, and stir it into the butter and onion. Add gradually one pint of hot water or stock. Cut two pounds of lean mutton into small bits and brown them in the fat, then add the sauce and simmer until tender. Place the meat on a hot dish and arrange a border of rice around the meat.

Veal Curry—Wipe a slice of veal a half inch thick, weighing one and a half pounds, with salt and dry it on a board and sear it on each side. Fry two sliced onions in a half cup of butter until brown, remove the onions and add the sliced veal. Add one-half teaspoonful of curry, then cover with boiling water. Cook slowly until the meat is tender. Thicken with flour mixed with water to make a gravy. Add a tablespoonful of vinegar, and serve with rice.

Curried Eggs—Remove the shells from six hard cooked eggs and cut in halves or slices. Fry one tablespoonful of chopped onion in a tablespoonful of butter, add a tablespoonful of cornstarch, or two of flour mixed with half a tablespoonful of curry powder. Four on slowly one and a half cups of stock, milk or cream, add salt and pepper to taste. Simmer until the onions are soft, add the eggs, and when warm, garnish with a half teaspoonful of vinegar, and serve with rice.

DISHES FOR ENTERTAINING.

Food can never be too nice, or too dainty to serve to our friends, and when we entertain them it is a pleasure to give them something unusual and pleasing.

Hamburg Cream With Fruit Juice—Put a cupful each of raspberry and currant juice in a double boiler over the fire. Beat the yolks of nine eggs until they are thick and beat again; add the juice scalding hot to the eggs and sugar (a little at a time) and stir to the boiler to cook until it thickens. Remove from the heat and fold into the mixture the whites of nine eggs beaten stiff. Serve in sherbet glasses with macaroons.

Strawberry Trifle—Cut strawberries in halves and mix with cream, add sugar, let stand an hour. Arrange lady fingers low cabin-fashion and the sugared berries in the open space. Cover with sweetened whipped cream.

Rhubarb Baked With Figs—Cover well-washed figs with boiling water and cook until the water is nearly gone. Cut a pound of rhubarb into cubes, add a pound of figs, a baking dish, sprinkle with a teaspoon of sugar, and a dash of salt. Cover with figs until a pound of rhubarb and half a pound of figs have been used. Add a few teaspoonfuls of hot water, cover, and cook in a slow oven, until the rhubarb is tender. Drain and strain, and place of figs.

Prunes—Pudding—Grate half a pound of Boston brown bread that is a day old, pour over it a pint of hot cream, allowing it to stand until cold. Prepare a rich custard by scalding a pint of milk, adding three-fourths of a cup of sugar and two tablespoonfuls of sugar. Cook until the custard coats the

VEAL AS SUMMER FOOD.

Veal, at its best, is not especially high in food value, and if put on the market too early in the season, it is a serious gastric disturbance, making it a dangerous food. Good veal may be known by its pinkish color and white fat; if the meat lacks color the animal has either been bred or was too young to kill.

A calf should be from six to eight weeks old before putting on the market.

Veal Loaf—Chop three pounds of veal and a half pound of salt pork mix with two well beaten eggs, one cupful of crumbs, two teaspoonfuls of salt, a sprig of parsley, a cup of butter and a tablespoonful of onion juice. Mold in a small tin, unmoistened and pour over it a beaten egg, and sprinkle with crumbs. Bake in a moderate oven and in two hours, basting with butter and water. Serve cold.

Veal Curry With Rice—Cook until tender, two pounds of veal cut in small pieces, add a small amount of onion and cook with the meat. Cut the meat into small pieces and thicken the gravy with a tablespoonful of flour. Add a cup of butter and a tablespoonful of onion juice. Mould in a small tin, unmoistened and pour over it a beaten egg, and sprinkle with crumbs. Bake in a moderate oven and in two hours, basting with butter and water. Serve cold.

Doctor's Yarn.

"An anecdote," said a well-known physician, explaining things to a lady patient, "is a cheat, in a way. I mean to say that a medicine that relieves the attack, but the next attack come so much sooner.

"Understand what I mean? It'll cure her headache, but she'll get it again."

"I know just what you mean, doctor," interrupted the lady patient. "I've had my headache cured by a doctor prescribed whiskey for a cough of his."

"My husband says I cured his cough quicker than anything else ever did, but I notice that he gets a new cough almost every week now!"

This same doctor tells us of a friend and professional brother.

"He was saved from a horrible fate by the strictest medical care. He had willed his body to a medical college, but he went to the South Sea Islands and was captured and sold by cannibals!"

As a Stranger—See Us.

There aren't many places where the baggage transfer companies are getting on as they are in Pittsburgh. Once in New York I gave a boy the job of "toeing my grip from the Pennsylvania station to Times square, about five minutes' walking distance. He had willed his body to a medical college, but he went to the South Sea Islands and was captured and sold by cannibals!"

Little Girl Was Enough.

Little Esther had been taken to church and had been crying and crying for the first time in her life. Her mother was sitting on the bench next to her, and she was crying and crying for the first time in her life.

How Many Times Has Your Body Been Rusted?

Asked the chemist, "How many times has your body been rusted?" replied the doctor, "Every time you eat a piece of iron."
