Practical Fashions

MISSES' DRESS.

One of the most comfortable of the simple models is shown in this design. The plain blouse opens in front, the neck is low, the armhole extra large and the sleeve short or long. A three gore skirt, with either raised or regulation waist line completes the costume.

The dress pattern (6293) is cut in sizes 14, 16 and 18 years. Medium size requires 4¼ yards of 36 inch material, with ⅝ yard of 34 inch satin for the girdle.

To procure this pattern send 10 cents to "Pattern Department" of this paper. Write name and address plainly, and be sure to give size and number of pattern.

LADY'S OVERBLOUSE.

The pretty cut of this blouse gives it an unusually dressy effect and when fashioned of rich stuffs, such as matelasse, brocaded silk or satin the result is a blouse which is suitable for almost any occasion. A long or short sleeve may be used. Two large molds covered with the material of the waist serve to close it. Any of the new silks or brocaded novelties may be used with good results.

The lady's overblouse pattern (6351) is cut in sizes 34 to 42 inches bust measure. Medium size requires 2 yards of 36 inch material.

To procure this pattern send 10 cents to "Pattern Department" of this paper. Write name and address plainly, and be sure to give size and number of pattern.

Have a Fire-Extinguisher.

A reliable fire-extinguisher, which throws chemicals instead of water, should hang in every home, in the barn and in the stable. Seconds are precious when fire breaks out, and the small, inexpensive extinguishers are so simple of use and quick of action that they at once arrest the progress of small blaze. Motorists have found the little extinguisher invaluable.

Power of Dissolving.

There is a Brooklyn woman who possesses a servant who is a model in all respects save one—in that she is none too truthful.

Lately the mistress has been using all her eloquence to make Nora see the error of deceitfulness. But at last she had to own herself beaten when Nora, with a beaming smile, turned and in a most cajoling tone said:

"Sure, now, mum, an' wot do ye suppose the power of dissolvin' was given us for?"

Nevertheless He Got Her.

"You say my daughter loves you?" questioned the old man.

"I'm sure of it," replied the young man.

"Well, well," returned the old man, looking the young man over critically. "There's no accounting for tastes, is there?"

And somehow, although the young man knew that he ought to be happy over the possession of the girl, he couldn't help scowling and speculating on that remark of the old man's.

First American Play.

The first play written by an American produced in this country, according to the Philadelphia Ledger, was the tragedy, "The Prince of Parthia," by Thomas Godfrey, which was brought out at the Southwark theater in the Quaker City in April, 1767, by Lewis Hallam's company, the first organization of players to visit Philadelphia. Godfrey was an ambitious young poet, who died at an early age. His play was above mediocrity and an important part of the volume of his works published in 1765.

A Good Walk For the Farm.

Stretch a cord from your house to the barn or road. Two feet to one side stretch another cord. Draw a line on the ground with a sharp stick along the cords. Take up the cords, hitch up your team and plough out a few furrows between lines, then dig down about eighteen inches and fill in with small stones picked off the plowed ground around the farm. Put a good layer of sand on top, and you have a path always dry and never slippery, even in the winter.—Farm and Fireside.

Too Much.

Tommy, having disposed of three helpings of sausage and doughnuts, sat mournfully regarding his empty plate.

Observing his pensive expression, Aunt Sarah kindly asked, "Tommy, won't you have some more doughnuts?"

"No'm!" the poor lad replied with feeling emphasis, "I don't want them I got now!"—Harper's Magazine.

Strong Influence.

Friend—You have great influence over your husband. He never left your side all yesterday. How did you manage it? Wife—Oh, I just sat firmly on the tails of his coat; that's all.—Morgendorfer Blatter.

Advice to a Wife.

Advice is often too good to be taken, but a very agreeable variety was once given by James Russell Lowell to a young woman about to be married. "Always give your husband—your own way."

Raw and Boiled Milk.

Raw milk and boiled milk are very different foods. The casein of raw milk, unless modified so that it will not form hard and large curds, offers serious difficulties in digestion that are not present in boiled milk.

How It Was Becoming.

"That dress is becoming, my dear," said the man who thinks he is a diplomat.

She looked at him coldly for a moment and then replied:

"Yes. It is becoming threadbare."

Preserving Leather Upholstery.

To improve and age the life of leather upholstery and prevent cracking, use one part of best vinegar and two of boiled linseed oil. Apply with a soft rag, then polish with a silk duster or piece of chamois. Do this weekly.

He Got Plenty.

Hi Tragedy—Whew! Hasler must have found food for thought in the dramatic editor's article this morning. Lowe Comedy—Food? I should say a full meal. He got a roast and all his desserts.—Philadelphia Press.

Her Cleverness.

She—Mary Graham is certainly a very clever woman, for she has little to say. He—That's where her cleverness comes in. She leads a man to believe that she thinks he is worth listening to.

Didn't Want to Be Left.

Miss Vera—Mr. Desmond, why did you go to the dining room before you greeted the hostess? Mr. Desmond—Well, the hostess will keep, but the refreshments seemed to be getting away.—London Telegraph.

Home Happenings.

Miss Edgerda Bergson who is teaching the Mitsch school, was a Mandan visitor three days of this week.

Advt.

There is to be a concert recital at the hall next Thursday night.

J. R. and Ross Sherwood have been laying the new cross walks in the village.

O. C. Ellingson has added a line of drugs and patent medicines to his stock. The new line is being placed on the shelves as fast as it arrives.

There is a report current that a pool hall is to be opened in the old hardware store building. At this time the store room is being put in shape for the tables.

Frank X. Todt was a Mandan business visitor the latter part of the week.

W. D. Robertson of Glen Ullin, was an Almont business visitor the latter part of the week.

Miss Florence Dean of Hebron, is a week end guest of friends in this city.

The post office question is still a matter of doubt as to whom the plum will fall. C. B. Kelsven has the highest standing in the competitive examination, A. Timmerman the longest list of names on his petition, and C. A. Knutson has the largest number of democrat names on his list and also the endorsement of the democratic county central committee. So those interested in the contest can judge for themselves as to what will be the outcome of the race, as one of 'safeguarding' restrictions of the department is to the effect that one the three highest in markings at the examination, may be certified to fill the existing vacancy.

Sokob Zentner and Nincent Erhardt mad final proof on two fine homesteads before U. S. Commissioner, C. H. Anderson, today.

Tobius Ransland is the only Almont elector drawn on the petit jury for the next term of court.

We are cutting a fine lot of Chrysanthemums now, priced from $1.50 to $5.00 per dozen. Send for Price List. Hoskins Floral Co., Bismarck, N. D. Advt.

NOTICE!

I will sell any place in Morton County, if you have a Farm Sale let me have it and get you the highest prices. If you want to sell your land, list it with me and get quick returns. If you want a cow or horse, let me know for I have them on hand all the time. Address—E. H. Erb, Almont, N. D. For Dates see the Arena.—Advt.

The N. P. section hands have been busy the last few days, repairing and setting up snow fence.

The long wanted cross walks are a reality. A song of heartfelt praise is ascending from the people for the new walks. The time is propitious. The season of Thanksgiving is at hand. And for what should the people be thankful, this nice new white board crosswalks after plodding thru the mud for a number of months until the rainy season is over and the ground is frozen hard? Let us be thankful. And to show that we are thankful we are going to wrap our little ink smudged hammer in paper and lay it on the shelf.

P. S. Part of the handle is still visible and within reach.

Custer Creek News.

Mrs. Fred Spath who has been visiting at Montrose, Minnesota, for the last few weeks, returned to Almont, Friday afternoon.

Does A Dollar Look Big to You?

It will do you should come in and get our prices and see our up-to-date and complete line of Lumber, Building Material, Builders' Hardware, Nails and Wire.

Nothing too large or too small for us to take care of—one piece or a carload.

Always glad to figure on your bills—that's what we are here for.

C. H. Chase Lumber Co.
Building material and grain.

Wait! before you build that house or barn—get our prices.

You really make your local lumber dealer a present of $50 to $500, when you give him an order for $100 to $1000 worth of lumber. You can buy better lumber of us, at a saving of 40% to 60%.

Buy direct from our mill

The middleman's profits are included in the dealer price to you. Our price includes one small profit above producing cost. We control large forests, cut, saw and market you at prices lower than your local lumber dealer can buy. Let the middleman and his salesman—the retail lumber yard—be the cost of the lumber when the dealer buys it, and have you take 30 to 50% on your hard earned money.

Satisfaction guaranteed—Quick shipments

We also quote delivered prices. You know just what you're going to pay—and we don't try to sell lumber for lumberyard are sure it's everything we say. We guarantee it to reach you in less than 30 days. Seven railroads hurry shipments to destination. They reach you in an average of two weeks.

Send your bill of materials for delivered prices

Then if you cannot make better delivered prices than we quote, or if you are not entirely satisfied in every way, return the lumber at our expense and your money will be refunded. Don't delay. Write today. Plans for building the cottage or mansion.

Striking a Fish.

The secret of striking a fish, especially a trout, which bites quickly, whether in brook, river or lake, is to give a sharp upturn of the wrist. This will move the rod or bait only two or three inches and will not jerk it from the water. If you miss the fish will follow the few inches, not being frightened, and in the majority of cases will be hooked at once. The quick jerking of the bait from the water almost invariably scares a trout—result, a dark streak disappearing down the stream.

Answered the Question.

On one occasion, just previous to opening in one of the large eastern cities, Joseph Jefferson discharged his property man, Bagley, for humiliating him before a number of friends by familiarly addressing him as "Joey." Bagley got drunk right away, and that night paid his way to the gallery to see Mr. Jefferson present "Rip Van Winkle." The angry frau had just driven poor, destitute Rip from the cottage, when Rip turned, and, with a world of pathos, asked: "Den haf I no interest in dis house?" The house was deathly still, the audience half in tears, when Bagley's cracked voice responded, "Only 50 per cent, Joey—only 50 per cent."

Early Paintings of Cain and Abel.

In the pictures of the eastern churches Cain is laying Abel with a dagger; in the west his weapon of murder is usually a club; sometimes, however, he is painted in the act of stoning his brother to death.

Cain and Abel are generally well dressed men in early illuminations. Lady Eastlake has the copy of a picture in which Adam's elaborate Gothic castle or mansion forms the background to the figures of the two brothers.—Old Scrap Book.

Notice and Citation, Hearing of Final Account and Distribution of Estate.

State of North Dakota, County of Morton In County Court, Before Hon. J. C. Johnson Judge.

In the Matter of the Estate of A. P. Amundson, Deceased.

Ferd R. Ringoen, Petitioner, vs
Florence A. Peoples, (Nee Amundsen) Martha L. Amundsen; Hattie G. Amundsen; Georg E. Amundsen, Esther M. Amundsen; Erling A. Amundsen; Chas. H. Pitcher, Special Guardian for Esther M. Amundsen and Erling A. Amundsen; and all other persons interested in said estate, Respondents.

The State of North Dakota to the above named Respondents:

You, the said above named respondents are hereby notified that the final account of the Trust as my Administrator of the Last Will and Testament of A. P. Amundsen late of the City of Detroit in the County of Hennepin and State of Minnesota, deceased, has been rendered in this Court, therein showing that the estate of said deceased is ready for final settlement and distribution, and petitioning that his account be allowed, the residue of said estate be distributed to the persons thereunto entitled, his administration closed and he be discharged; that Tuesday the 16th day of December A. D. 1913, at 1 o'clock in the afternoon of that day, at the Court Rooms of this Court, in the Court House, in the City of Mandan County of Morton and State of North Dakota, has been duly appointed by this Court for the settlement thereof, at which time and place any person interested in said estate may appear and file his exceptions, in writing, to said account and petition and contest same.

And you, the above named respondents, and each of you are hereby cited and required then and there to be and appear before this Court, and show cause, if any you have, why said account shall not be allowed, the residue of said estate distributed, the administration of said estate closed and said Testamentary Administrator discharged.

Dated the 21st day of October A. D. 1913.
By the Court:
J. C. Johnson,

The Firm's Health.

At the annual picnic of a Manchester firm one of the porkers was called upon after dinner to propose the toast to the firm. He was rather nervous, and began thus: "Mr. Chairman and gentlemen. I have very great pleasure in rising to propose the health of the firm, which will be very brief."—Manchester Guardian.

Ancient Smiths.

It is quite wrong to assume that the name Smith is derived from the fact that the original bearers were workers in metal. In reality, Smith is a very old name, far more ancient than Anglo-Saxon. The oldest known bearers of the name were brewers, and it was in use many thousand years ago in mighty Egypt.

Parliamentary Courtesy.

The story is told of one all night sitting of the house of commons, during which one member, who was sleeping in one of the division lobbies with his handkerchief over his face, was allowed to remain undisturbed throughout the voting by members of each side who thought he was "one of the other side."—Pall Mall Gazette.

COURTESY.

Courtesy lives by a multitude of little sacrifices, not by sacrifices sufficient to impose any burdensome sense of obligation. These little sacrifices may be both of time and money, but more of time, and the money sacrifice should be just perceptible, never ostentatious.

Consideration.

"Would you marry a man who had no money?"

"Well," replied Miss Cayenne, "I should, out of consideration for him, think a long time before doing so."—Washington Star.

What Changed His Mind.

"I had supposed until yesterday, doctor, that the days of the bleeding of patients were past."

"And so they are. But what changed your mind?"

"The bill you sent me."

Conversation.

The reason why so few people are agreeable in conversation is that each is thinking more of what he is intending to say than of what others are saying, and we never listen when we are planning to speak.—Rochefoucauld.

The Marvel.

Husband—Wifee Gadsooks heard you sing at the party he said it was a marvel.

Wife—Oh, John! A marvel!

Husband—Yes; a marvel that any one asked you to.—Judge.

COURAGE.

Courage is one of the world's great words. It has molded the past with its deeds, and it carries the future in its dream.

Decree of Sin.

That old adage to the effect that children and fools speak the truth may explain the answer given by a young lad, pupil of one of the parochial schools, when being questioned as to the catechism. "What are the five kinds of sin, John?" he was asked. "Original and national," he replied.—Newark News.

Big Business Men Take Abstainers.

An investigation into the personal habits of twenty-eight of the biggest business men in the country shows that twenty-two of them are total abstainers. Those are men whose judgment is valued in business affairs; whose opinions carry weight. They are men whose example it is safe to follow.

Tablecloths.

To make tablecloths wear well buy one-eighth of a yard more of the goods than is needed. When the tablecloth begins to show wear cut off the eighth yard at one end and turn the end, says the Los Angeles Express. Also cut the same amount from one side of the cloth and hem the edge. This brings the folds in new places, and the cloth will last much longer.

Not What He Meant.

The schoolmaster was critically surveying John Sparks, whom he had commanded to stand.

"So you admit you wrote on the blackboard that I am a jackass?" he asked angrily.

"Yes, sir, I did," responded the lad.

"Well, at least I am glad to learn that you are truthful."—Detroit Free Press.

Costly Comment.

"You can't joke with a woman. I remarked to my wife last night that I wished some one would invent hookless gowns."

"Well, what happened?"

"She said my remark reminded her that there were a couple of gownless books in her closet, and now I'm in for a laundering big dressmaker's bill."—Boston Transcript.

South American Oil Birds.

One of the animal curiosities of South America is the "oil bird," or guacharo. It breeds in rocky caves on the mainland, and one of its favorite haunts is the island of Trinidad. It lays its eggs in a nest made of mud, and the young birds are prodigiously fat. The natives melt the fat down in clay pots and produce from it a kind of butter. The caves inhabited by the birds are usually accessible only from the sea, and the hunting of them is sometimes an exciting sport.

A Celtic Isle.

The smallest dependency of France is the Ile d'Yoedic, situated at the east of Belle Isle. Its population is less than 250. The people do not speak French, but Celtic. Fishing is the principal industry, and all the inhabitants are provided with food at an inn managed by the women. The town has no streets. The houses are mostly of mud.

Dome Builders of Rome.

It was largely their development of the dome and the arched roof in masonry that enabled the Romans to build on a scale of daring and magnificence which has not been surpassed in our modern age of steel. Recent excavations in Nero's palace have revealed five subterranean vaulted rooms in the proximity of the dining room which were built as fish tanks and used to keep fish alive for the use of the imperial table. The vault and the dome or round roof of the Romans served the purpose of the modern I beam and latticed roof girder as used by the present day architect and engineer.—Scientific American.

Infantile Chicken Broth.

Customer—What on earth is this broth made of, waiter? Surely it isn't chicken broth? Waiter—Well, sir, hit's chicken broth hin hits hinfancy. Hit's made bent of the water that the heggs are boiled hin.—London Tit-Bits.

Be Tolerant.

Do not think of knocking out another person's brains because he differs in opinion from you. It would be as rational to knock yourself on the head because you differed from yourself ten years ago.—Horace Mann.

Science and Sound Feet.

"The workings of the human mind when asleep are full of wonder," remarked a scientist who was paying a visit to an acquaintance. "Have you ever started up from a sound, dreamless sleep, with every sense on the alert and with your whole being thrilled with a vivid yet indefinable feeling that something was wrong and instant action required?"

"Often," replied his hostess, "and in nearly every case I have found that I was awakened by the fumbling of my husband's key at the front door."

Some Famous Salt Lakes.

The Dead sea is forty miles long and nine miles wide. The Great Salt lake is seventy miles long and thirty miles wide, the largest body of brine in the world. There is evidence to show that once the Great Salt lake was at least 350 miles in length and 150 in width, nine times its present area. The Dead sea contains about 24 per cent of solids, one-third of which is pure salt, while of the 23 per cent of solid matter in the waters of Great Salt lake nearly all is salt.

SECRET IS ALL IN SYSTEM

Even Very Busy Woman May Be Well Groomed if She Gives Thought to It.

There are women who have nothing to do the livelong day except keep themselves dainty. Part of the time they may spend at the manicures; part at the hairdressers, and the rest shopping for pretty finery wherewith to deck their faces and forms. But actual grooming is another matter for the busy woman who must get in her shampoo, manicuring and massage at odd moments snatched from pressing duties. Even the few minutes demanded for this ordinary process of dressing and bathing must be hurried through with thoughts intent on occupations to come, and as for the stitch in time, the sewing on of shoe buttons, the polishing of boots, washing of gloves and such little services to the toilet which keeps a woman always dainty and well dressed, too often must these essential things be done in frantic haste at the last moment before starting forth on some imperative errand.

System, in the case of the hurried woman, is as valuable here as it is in every other labor. One evening should be set apart during the week for "catching up" with one's grooming. On that evening the hair may be shampooed and while it is drying the hands may be thoroughly massaged. While the water is being drawn for the nightly bath, white gloves and light embroidered silk evening gloves may be washed out in the hand basin and stretched over during frames. During the week everything that requires mending or darning will have been slipped into a capacious cretonne bag, and with the pile of mending at one's hand, the drying hair spread over one's shoulder and plenty of leisure the work of repairing odds and ends will go very quickly. Last of all, the various boots and slippers will have attention. Vaseline will be rubbed into leather stiffened by wet; a whisk-broom will remove all dust around the soles and missing buttons will be firmly sewed on before the polishing is given.

What a joy to start the morning week with the hair fluffy and clean, the hands in perfect condition, and everything in one's wardrobe daintily ready for wear!

PRETTY GOWN

Model of black velvet with corsage of white wool brocade. Lace jabot and collar.

Boudoir Caps.

Fashions come and fashions go, but boudoir caps stay on. They get prettier every month, too. One model is now shown developed in net. There is a full net crown, with a little upstanding brim of net or tulle falling thickly pleated, and held straight up around the crown with a twist of pink or blue or violet or yellow ribbon. On one side over the ear is a rosette of ribbon with two long ends hanging from it. Each end is weighted down with a little ribbon ball, decorated with beads or gold or silver spangles.

Another attractive model is made all of lace, mounted on a wire frame.

To Tell Linen.

In purchasing a piece of linen, if in doubt, dampen a finger in the mouth, pat it on the material, and if the dampness shows on the opposite side in the same time the goods is linen. Cotton fabrics are slower to absorb moisture.

MEANS MONEY SAVING

INTELLIGENT USE OF MATERIAL IN THE KITCHEN.

Especially in the Preparation of Soups Can the Housewife Who Knows Economize on Her Butcher's Bill.

The housewife by judicious selection of her food materials and intelligent cooking may perform her part in saving.

It is not so much what comes in the kitchen door as what goes out in waste, that determines the size of the bill the housewife must meet.

These recipes are simple and selected with the idea of promoting economy.

Tomato Soup—One-half can tomatoes, 1 pint cold water, ½ onion, ½ tablespoon thyme, 1 tablespoon butter, 2 tablespoons of flour, 1 teaspoon of salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper.

Strain tomatoes, add water, salt, pepper and sugar, cook ½ hour, after which stir in mixed flour and butter, boil 10 minutes and serve hot.

Bouillon and Vermicelli—Buy a 10-cent knuckle of veal. Put on to cook in 2 quarts of water and let come to a boil slowly, then add salt, pepper and onion. Boil slowly for three hours, strain through a fine sieve, and let come to a boil. Add about ½ cup of finely broken vermicelli and boil for 10 minutes longer.

Cream Carrot Soup—Wash, scrape and cut into slices enough carrots to fill a fruit bowl. Boil these in a quart of water, slightly salted, till soft enough to rub through a sieve with the potato masher. Mix together in a thick saucepan 2 tablespoons of flour and 1 tablespoon of butter, stirring with a wooden spoon till they begin to bubble. Gradually stir into this a pint of milk and carrot pulp. Add hot water to make 1 quart of soup. Put the yolk of 1 egg and a tablespoon of chopped parsley together in the tureen, turn in the hot soup, stir gently, and serve at once.

Rice Soup—Take 1 quart of water and 4 tablespoons of well-pickled and washed rice, put in a granite kettle, and place in a moderate oven. Add a quart of rice milk and salt to taste, and boil 10 minutes or until rice is done; a slice of onion or a stalk of celery cooked with it and removed before serving will improve the flavor. Add ½ cup of sweet cream to the soup and serve.

Consommé—Fifteen cents for 3 pounds of veal or beef bone. Crack the bones well and cut the meat from them into small pieces. Into a hot soup kettle put 1 teaspoon of sugar and a few slices of onion. Heat until both have become dark brown. Put in the meat, sear slightly and cover with 2 quarts of cold water. Add the bones, bring quickly to boiling and skim. Let simmer gently for 3 hours, then add 2 or 3 whole cloves, and a bay leaf and allow to simmer a half hour longer. Strain through cheesecloth and set aside to cool. When cold remove fat from surface. When heated, with the addition of salt only, this makes a most delightful dark brown clear soup.

Lima Bean Soup—Soak one pint of lima beans over night in cold water and in the morning boil in water until soft. If the water boils away very much add a little milk or water. Add salt, pepper and cayenne to taste. If you like add a little onion juice. Melt one tablespoon of butter and rub into it until it is perfectly smooth one tablespoon of flour. Pour on this one cup of boiling water and stir hard. Stir the two mixtures together. Slice 2 or 3 very thin and put in the soup. It will be ready to serve as soon as it boils.

Mock Olives.

Mock olives made of green plums are worth making. Get a quarter of a peck of them. Mix an ounce of mustard seed, two quarts of vinegar, two tablespoonfuls of salt and boil it. When it is boiling, pour it over the green plums, which should have been washed, sorted and laid out on a board or table to dry. Let the plums stand in the spiced vinegar until the next morning and then drain it off. Heat it and pour it over the plums again. Let them get cold and bottle and cork them.

Potatoes in the Shell.

Bake 3 medium sized potatoes. When done take from oven and cut into lengthwise pieces. Remove the inside carefully without breaking the skins, mash, add butter, pepper and salt, 3 tablespoons of milk and the beaten whites of two eggs. Stir together lightly, fill the skins or shells with the mixture and bake 20 minutes. Serve hot. There is no time to be wasted in preparing these, and the quicker you can do it the better.

Use an Eraser.

Always keep an ordinary blackboard eraser near the kitchen range, using it to wipe off the top. This keeps the range clean, and you only need to wash and polish it once a week. This eraser can be purchased at a very small cost and saves time and trouble.

Holiness Pie.

Line a pie plate with pastry and fill it with your favorite soft gingerbread batter, baking in the same as any pie.

After Peeling Onions.

After peeling onions rub your hands with celery or parsley. It will disinfect the odor.

IN COLOR COMBINATION

NEW MILLINERY HAS A CHARM OF ITS OWN.

Small Hat Is Most in Favor—For Trimmings, Feathers and Ribbon Are Preferred — Illustration Shows Popular Design.

There is much to be said in favor of the new millinery, for, although many perhaps the majority of hats are most ridiculous in their eccentricities, as they are viewed from every point, the tail in the glass front of the shops, they are certainly picturesque, and conservative enough when properly adjusted atop of the head.

The new hats show the interesting color combinations so fashionable in gowns. Many models have either the crown and brim of different colors, not to mention different fabrics also, or else the crown and brim are one of color with an under facing that is in strong contrast.

Almost without exception the hats are small, with close-fitting crown and brims—if there are brims—that hug the head. The trimmings are legion, with feathers and ribbons in the lead.

Most of the dressy models are planned to give extra height, and the result is achieved through the trimmings, as in the hat here sketched with its large mount of black plumage toward the rear. The hat itself is one of the new "fan-tailed" shapes with a close "cap" crown slightly gathered, and a narrow poke brim that increases in width at the back, where it is turned abruptly up against the crown, allowing a glimpse of the coif.

On this particular instance it is developed in black and white. The crown and upper side of the brim are covered with white beaver plush and the under brim facing is of black carried just over the upper edge in a cord piping.

It is a model well adapted to many color schemes and one that can be nicely made to match a street costume.—Lillian Young in Washington Star.

MOST ARTISTIC JET WRAP

Recent Developments Show That Possibilities in This Line Have Not Been Exhausted.

When Drecoll brought out his jet coat last summer, made of white and black crystals, the majority of persons thought it was the last word in attractive beaded wraps, but there are several new ones introduced today that are even prettier, because the design is more artistic and is not confined to contrasting bands of black and white. In these new coats the spider web is quite the most daring and charming of them all. It is made in black and in white, both mounted over flesh pink chiffon satin, and edged with deep scallops of panne velvet.

There is another jet wrap which is a loose coat that hangs from shoulders nearly to hem of skirt, made of jet beads loosely sewn to coarse black net. This is worn without a lining, over white, black or colored gowns, or it can be lined and worn as an afternoon or evening wrap. It is matchless that the beads will not break when one sits down. The Drecoll coat lasted very well indeed, and this new one is made much after the same manner.

The coat is all black; even the tulle ruffs at the neck matches, for few of the great dressmakers are combining black and white. Here and there one sees a remarkable gown in the black and white directoire striping, but the material will be used as a train or a flowing gown over a white lace or tulle foundation.

There seems to be no doubt, however, that stripes are bound to be in the ascendancy, but not at the present moment. They merely are introduced as it were, to get before the public and gain a hearing. The dark Roman stripes are used, but only for one garment, such as a skirt, or as a piece of garment, like the inordinately deep sleeves which almost take up the whole of the bodice.

Pretty Baby Cap.

Use white lace all over, and draw the fullness in at the back with ribbon run through a tiny hem. Edge the bonnet with a lace ruffle, and make long strings of fine lace inserting about three inches wide.

Turned into Tragedy.

An "accident" slain for a cinematograph company ended in real tragedy at Hildesheim, Hungary, a few days ago, when one of the actresses died from injuries received while playing her part. Thousands of people had collected near a mill sluice on the Rhine river to watch the acting of a scene depicting the overturning of a boat during the crossing of the river. As the boat overturned ten of the actors and actresses were thrown into the mill sluice. The onlookers saved all the unfortunate people, but one of the actresses succumbed to her injuries.

The Poppy.

The poppy, throughout the east is an emblem of death. In many parts of India this flower is planted upon graves and in cemeteries. Whether or not the idea was suggested by the poisonous character of the juice is uncertain. It is believed that the poppy was known as a funeral plant to the Egyptians, for upon the tombs opened by Belzoni there appeared representations of plants which were evidently intended for poppies.—Harper's Magazine.

Labels That Won't Come Off.

To label a bottle so that the label is waterproof and cannot fall off, the following plan is recommended in "Camera Craft": A strip of black passe-partout binding tape long enough to reach round the bottle and to overlap a little is used, and the writing is done with white ink or paint. A little hot paraffin wax poured over it makes it waterproof. The white letters on a background can be read in a very feeble light.

His Thrilling Experience.

The following is an extract from a youthful autobiography: "I am eleven years old. When I was three I had the scarlet fever. After that I had mumps, measles and whooping cough, soon a great dane jumped and bit my face and then I fell off of a ladder and broke my arm. Mother says boys have much better times now than when she was childish.—Everybody's.

Words of the Great Poet.

When Dr. J. M. Buckley was a young minister he took a trip abroad. While in a London museum he became aware that Alfred Tennyson was about. He followed the great poet's party for an hour, and finally was rewarded by hearing him speak. This is what Tennyson said: "You hold the children while I get a glass of beer."—Gallipolis Tribune.

Got His "Compliment."

Apparently it is dangerous for the young clergyman to fish for compliments. There is a story of a reverend divine who once asked a sexton how he liked the sermon. "I didn't like it at all," candidly answered that worthy. "Why, pray?" inquired the preacher. "First, because you read it; secondly, because it was not worth reading."

Annoying Misprint.

We wish to apologize to Mrs. Orlando Overlook. In our paper last week we had as a heading, "Mrs. Overlook's Big Feet." The word we ought to have used is a French word pronounced the same way, but spelled fete. It means a celebration and is considered a very tony word.—Williamsville (N. D.) Item.

"See Adam."

The Encyclopedia Americana has been registered in the index expurgatorium of the suffragists. Under the subject "Eve," it says merely "See Adam."—Cincinnati Times-Star.

Laugh and Grow Fat.

The little phrase, "laugh and grow fat" is an allusion to Demócritus, "The Laughing Philosopher," who waxed fat on good humor and lived to be 109 years old.

Two Notable Monuments.

Cleopatra's needle is sixty-eight feet high, and weighs 140 tons. The Luxor monument in Paris, also a single stone, is seventy-six feet high and weighs 240 tons.

Apparently.

"Does your son intend to take a full course in college?" "It looks that way. His liquor bill for the first month was over thirty dollars."—Judge.

Really Not Worth It.

Sometimes an "affinity" works hard to get some other woman's husband only to discover when she has him that it was work thrown away.

Beneficent Nature.

Among the most blessed of all the contrivances of nature is that which prevents a man from being disturbed by his own snoring.

Mellow Quality.

Many a man thinks he is a good provider because he occasionally brings his wife a cheese sandwich at 11 p. m.

Doubtful.

"Do you think you could learn to love me?" "Well, I never was much of a success as a student."

PINCUSHION IN HEART SHAPE

Dainty Design That Calls for Little Work to Make Attractive Ornament.

Our sketch shows a decorative little pincushion which is very simple and easy to make. It should be carried out in cake a small size, and it is intended for hanging from the post of the looking glass or a nail in the wall by the side of the glass.

In making it, in the first place, a piece of cardboard is cut out in the shape of a heart, measuring three and a quarter inches by two and three-quarter inches. This cardboard is well padded on both sides with cotton wool, and then covered with scarlet velvet, the pieces of material being neatly sewn together at the edges and the seam afterwards being hidden with a fine silk cord of an old gold color. Sew on at the center at the top is a loop of narrow ribbon of a color to match the cord, for hanging up the cushion.

This cushion might, of course, be carried out in other combinations of color to please different tastes, and it is a specially suitable little article to prepare for sale in a bazaar, as very little material is required in the making of it, and it should sell at a good profit. A number of these little cushions, hung about here and there will form a decorative addition to a stall and some of them might be embroidered with pretty floral designs or single initials.

FOR THE AFTERNOON TEA

Hostess Must Be Quick to Pick Up Ideas Others May Be Able to Give Her.

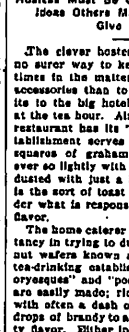
The clever hostess knows there is no surer way to keep abreast of the times in the matter of afternoon tea accessories than to pay frequent visits to the big hotels and restaurants at the tea hour. Almost each hotel or restaurant has its "special." One establishment serves delicately crisped squares of graham bread, sprinkled over so lightly with grated cheese and dusted with just a bit of paprika. It is the sort of toast to make one wonder what is responsible for the subtle flavor.

The home caterer need have no hesitancy in trying to duplicate the dainty nut wafers known as all the fashionable tea-drinking establishments as "hickoryesques" and "pocanesques." These are easily made; rich little nut cakes, with often a dash of sherry or a few drops of brandy to accentuate the nutty flavor. Either in the form of macaroons or wafers they are sure to be liked for the tea table.

LATEST IN AUTUMN MODELS

Dark Red Shantung Makes One of the Prettiest of Gowns for the Afternoon.

The gown shown, which is fashioned from dark red shantung, is a new autumn mode bo coming and at tractive. A now curved girdle is shown in this which promises popularity later. This is piped with a narrow, richly colored embroidery corresponding to the yoke. The vest front is filled with narrow ruffles of lace. The sleeves reach to the elbow, where they join long transparent sections of soft tone chiffon. The skirt of this gown is a popular type for fall, closing to the left with clipped slash show ing slip effect.



Glimpses of the sailor and slightly pointed tunic, the girdle at back and front.

Darning Hint.

Instead of darning cut the hole round or oblong, as the case may be. Place over a darning ball, these can from an old stocking a piece to fit the hole, place in, care being taken to have the threads fit patch run the same as to the stocking. Then with a fine needle, and one strand of darning cotton, darn neatly back and forth, bringing the edges just together.

MME. MERRI'S ADVICE

SUGGESTIONS FOR ENTERTAINMENTS AND OTHER THINGS.

November Party May Be Made One of the Most Enjoyable of the Year —For Those Fond of Football.

The man who said that November brought the "saddest days in the year" has another think coming, for while it brings colder weather, gray skies and shakes the last leaves off the trees with its piercing blasts, it also brings the reopening of the social season, with blazing fires and all the cosiness of the home circle drawn around the lighted center table.

At the end of the month comes our own great feast day and glad holiday, for we all find room in our hearts for Thanksgiving.

It seems to me that Japanese affairs are especially fitting for this month with chrysanthemums plentiful (which they love). Such parties are always effective and pleasing to one's guests. To make the rooms as really Japanese as possible much of the furniture should be removed, partitioning off spaces where necessary with Japanese paper screens. Use flowering shrubs, almond blossoms (artificial), chrysanthemums and butterflies suspended by invisible black threads.

The hostess must bow very low three times, saying "Konichiwa" when the guests arrive and "Sayonara" when they leave. Tea should be served with no cream; use cups without handles. Sponge cakes may be served if rice ones are not obtainable, also preserved ginger. If something cold is wished have cherry ice. Those who assist should wear kimonos.

Have some young girls in Japanese costumes play "bag ball" (dama). Have a number of bright-colored bags filled with dried beans. Each girl tries to keep as many bags going as possible without dropping them. Another amusing game is played by means of a long silk scarf, in the center of which is a loose knot or loop held midway between the two players who hold the scarf and the floor. On one side of the loop a player sits. On the other side is a small object, a flower, a bean bag, even a thimble. The player who sits by the loop tries to slip her hand through, grab the small article and take her hand back again before those holding the loop can draw it tight and make her hand prisoner.

A Football Party.

Boys, and incidentally the girls, are greatly interested in football these days; in fact a little chap only ten who had to go to the hospital for an operation was so keen about a forthcoming game that his one desire was to "get back" in time to witness it. I read of such a pretty party in one of the magazines some years ago that just fitted this season of the year, and I am going to tell you a little about it, as I recall some of the ways it was carried out. I feel sure that the up-to-date girls who may want to give a similar affair will have no trouble in working it out. I must confess I am not a "fan," so have no personal knowledge of how to use the terms correctly. I do know that the favor departments of the stores show cunning little footballs to be used as containers for nuts or candies, and there are pennants galore, so all well-known colleges and many high schools are represented. A large football may form the centerpiece, from which ribbons (team or school colors) may run to smaller footballs at each place. The names of guests may be printed on the sides and so be used for place cards.

DICTATES OF FASHION

Marigold yellow is one of the new colors in Paris.

Plush and velour are much used for children's hats.

Wide white belts are seen made of kid or suede leather.

Wool brocades are being used, even for young girls' suits.

Persian effects will be seen galore on the new autumn gowns.

New black braids have the basket weave and suggest astrakhan.

A new braid is the combination of dull braids and bright ones.

Pouch bags of silk or leather have pannier handles to match.

White frocks are best for the little girl's first days of school.

Even for autumn women are wearing white net waists with frills down the front.

Some of the new separate skirts are made of a jacquard wool and prettily draped.

To Clean Light Woolen.

Make a mixture of cornmeal, a handful of borax and half a cake of magnesia. Mix this dry and scrub the goods with it. To clean wool shawls, sweaters, etc., sprinkle the mixture over the garment, place inside a shoe-box, cover with tissue and beat thirty minutes. It is surprising how much the boys' coats in the cleaning process.

Little Sky's Knickers.

When making linen knickerbockers for a little boy, work a buttonhole in the hem to run the elastic through, and put a hook at one end of the elastic and an eye at the other, to fasten. It can then be taken out before laundering the garment, and will not only last longer, but will do for several pairs.
