Sims Sidelights.

Mrs. Serine Thompson has been seriously ill for the past week, but is slowly regaining her health.

Mrs. John Nordquist of Basegian and Miss Anna Thompson of Hutt were called home on account of the illness of their mother, Mrs. Serine Thompson.

Carl Jacobson on returning from hunting rabbits, placed a loaded and cocked 20-30 rifle in the corner of the room. The children while playing knocked the rifle to the floor and striking the trigger discharged it. The bullet passed through the floor of one of Mr. Jacobson's feet, fortunately missing the bones.

A doctor dressed the wound and it will soon be all right—but such negligence on his part is almost criminal and the results might have been fatal.

Tobias Stensland, one of the early settlers of Sims died at the Mandan hospital Saturday, Dec. 13, of cancer. The remains were brot to Sims and laid to rest in the Lutheran Cemetery, Dec. 16th. Mr. Stensland is survived by his wife, who is staying at Mrs. Olivia William, and a daughter, Mrs. John Johnson of Buchanan, N. D. Mrs. Stensland will leave in the near future to live with her daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Stensstad of Almont were Sims visitors Sunday.

Mrs. L. N. Wang who has spent some time here, left for her home at Hebron, Sunday.

WHEN CHRISTMAS TIME COMES ROUND

S. E. KISER

When Christmas time comes round it seems
As though the long, long years
Toll back and take us to the days
And try up all our scars...

I'm stoked at the 'ole Santa Claus
And all them kind of tricks
I like to watch the boys that play
By making up the tricks...

I wish that I was Santa Claus
And had a magic sleigh
To visit all the children here
Look forward to the day...

Oh, happy time of Yuletide!
And all the white with snow;
Oh, joyful day that takes us back
To childhood long ago!

In these days of amateur photocollecting in such large numbers that it is rather difficult to know what to do with all of them...

This little portfolio is made in cream-colored satin and lined with white

The case should be stiffened with a piece of cardboard sewn in between the satin and lining at the back.

Of particular distinction are the great relief to know that there is a little of them to be pencil or by tacking that portion of the handkerchief that hangs be-

The use of an apron like this are many and varied, they are so dainty that they may be put on the best gown without being seen, and thus prevent an accident from spilling it.

In the Spirit of Christmas
Jollity

By S. E. KISER

Many a woman is kept by the Christmas presents she takes back to be exchanged

If there is a Christmas season in between the department store clerk will hardly wait to go there.

The woman who looks for the price mark on her present generally gets mad if she fails.

A good thing about some Christmas presents is that they don't last more than a day or two.

People who get off buying things
they really need until after Christmas hardly ever find them in their store-

Some people don't permit their children to believe in Santa Claus because they really want all the treatments themselves.

If Santa Claus were a woman Christmas would always have to be postponed for a few days while she administered the finishing touches.

Lucky Gloves.
Will, happy hearts come people give
And never mind the price:
They were the gifts that will receive
Are sure to be as nice.

A Warning to Lovers.
"What was the happiest moment of your life dear?" she asked.
"It was when you said you, darling,"
he replied.

The signed and permitted her cheek
to rest against his breast for a long time. Then she said:
"Happy do you remember that distressed ring we looked at in Blaise's?"

"After he had reached the desk room
he whispered to himself:
'What a lovely girl!' Never told a lie to my life without having immediate cause to be sorry for it."

Why the Colonel Gave N. G.
"Colonel," said the beautiful green
widow, "what is it you so strongly object to the exchanging of Christmas
presents?"

"Oh, that you," he replied. "I used to be an earnest philosopher over the sending of gifts. There was a time that I thought a good deal of it them days, and a sister of mine who had been married only a couple of years was made glad by the arrival of a little one only about a month before Christmas...

Cander.
"If I were to catch you under the moon would you try to get away?"
"Of course I should—but I feel alone
here that I should not succeed."

Orange Charlotte.
Grate the rind of one orange pour over it one-half of a cupful of boiling water...

A Lucky Man.
Do you see the one through your eyes?
He wears the wind ring earring of cheer
and the Christmas gift...

FAIR WARNING TO SANTA CLAUS
There ain't no Santa Claus, I guess, or is there is, who he...

Don't know no very mean about him
Dunno, none to me;
And I ain't for
any one,
And all his hat
and his shoe...

And I ain't no very
mean about him
Dunno, none to me;
And I ain't for
any one,
And all his hat
and his shoe...

Every a me and my partner.
I've wrote him this year that I need a book and a hand and a good thing to do...

Why the Colonel Gave N. G.
"Colonel," said the beautiful green
widow, "what is it you so strongly object to the exchanging of Christmas
presents?"

THE WEEKLY ARENA PUBLISHING CO.
ALMONT, N. D.

Subscription Price: (When Paid in Advance) $1.25
Subscription Note: $1.75
Foreign Subscriptions $2.00

Entered as second-class matter December 21, 1910, at the post office at Almont, North Dakota, under the Act of March 3, 1879.

With this issue the ARENA closes its third year. Next week it enters a new year.

Whether that new year which begins on December 21st, will be one of pleasant, cheerful endeavor, or of worried, heart-breaking labor to make onto and income balance, rests with our subscribers and those for whom we have given our time and stock. It depends upon our subscribers to say and determine whether we shall be able to have and enter into the Christmas festivities and the giving in the smallest way. During the year we have carried names on our list at the request of the subscriber and now that the time limit set by post office department has been reached, we must drop those names and lose both labor and money—unless those whom we have given credit and have trusted come in to make good. Also at the mailing of this week's papers, more than a hundred subscriptions expire. If each person whose subscription expires on that date, would send in a renewal for year with good wishes, we would, indeed, have the Merry Christmas we wish for all. Before you lay aside this paper, pin a dollar bill to a slip of paper with your name and address and with 25 cents in silver or stamps, put it in an envelope and mail to us at our risk.
