Retired as second-class matter December 21, 1910, at the post office at Almont, North Dakota, under the Act of March 3, 1879.

May Enter Congressional Race in Third District.

The man whose picture appears above, is most frequently spoken of as a candidate for the republican nomination for congress, has for a great many years lived in Dickinson. He has untiringly worked for the development of the Slope. He came here when the state was young and, unlike some others, he has not jumped from another community during a spasm of counterfeiting reform and ridden into office before the dust had had time to settle and show the people the alleged reforms were only created or boosted political stock that had no intrinsic value. If Mr. Simpson does become a candidate, he will without doubt be nominated as all wish to be represented at Washington by a strong, able Congressman.

TELL HIM WHAT YOU HAVE.

A merchant met a farmer coming from the depot, carrying a package in his hand and a paper in his pocket. The merchant accosted the farmer with, "What is in the package?" "A pair of shoes from Sears, Roebuck and Co.," was the reply. "Why didn't you show 'em to me?" said the merchant, "I keep shoes." "Why didn't you tell me you keep shoes?" said the farmer. "You know I have a store," answered the merchant. "Yes, I know that, and I also know that Sears, Roebuck & Co., also have a store. And they send us their store news so we know just what we will have to pay for anything when we want to buy." was the farmer's rejoinder. "Quality considered, I can sell as cheap as they will," said the storekeeper. "Well, if you can do so, why don't you tell us farmers about it. I buy the home paper as much for the store news as for the locals. I have the home paper in my pocket and there is not a line in it about your store nor is a message of any kind in it asking for our trade," said the farmer, as he walked away.
