THE WEEKLY ARENA

Volume 4, Number 18.

ALMONT, MORTON COUNTY, NORTH DAKOTA, APRIL 25, 1914.

Price, Per Year—$1.25

Theodore Feland is kept so busy looking after the county's business and his farming operations that he has had very little opportunity to do any campaigning for re-nomination as republican candidate for county commissioner from district "C". However, he has done as much good work for this district—in fact for the whole county—that he will receive the endorsement of the people which he deserves.

A. M. Johnson of Rose Dale, was an Almont business visitor, the latter part of the week.

W. F. Martin transacted business at the countyseat the first of the week.

Mrs. O. C. Ellingson visited in Bismarck, Monday.

Jonathan Pederson went to Bismarck, one day this week to see his seven-pound daughter. He is emphatic when he says, "It is the finest girl in the world."

The fore part of the week the township supervisors made an inspection of the roads to see where work was most needed. As notices for bids have not as yet been posted we are not able to say where and what work is to be done this year.

Tuesday afternoon, Hogen Anderson's three children, while driving home from school were thrown from their wagon and quite badly hurt when the horse, frightened by an automobile, ran away and demolished the rig. One of the children was hurt about the head and for several hours was in a comatose condition.

There are so many good capable candidates in the field for the offices in this county that it is difficult to discriminate between them. All are of such calibre that the county would be efficiently officered if the voters were to elect any of them. Each week new hats are kicked, thrown or blown into the ring, and on examination of the credentials of the aspirants, it is found that all is well. The voters are, however, going below the ordinary surface conditions and business life. They want a better and clearer insight into his life as a part of the community life—his moral standing, his attitude toward the moral-advancement of the public, his observance of the statutes and his personal habits, whether he is of the character which finds pleasure in reciting local stories or one that seeks the paths that leads to make the home and club centers from radiate wholesome influences.

That among the numerous candidates in this county, there may possibly be a few who indulge in those practices among the few select friends, the writer does not in the least doubt, but in only one particular case the writer was the unwilling listener to a group of men telling vile stories—and one who told the worst and most revolting stories was a candidate for office in Morton county. And one of Morton county's business men said at that time, "I intended to support, work and vote for Mr. —, but we do not want such in office." He continued, "Reform is needed, but when those who are claiming to be reformers, so far forget themselves as to publish utter obscene tales, the very essence of the reform is left out and there is something selfish and low about their claim." It appeared as if the wolf had donned sheep's clothes.

Col. I. N. Steen of Mandan, was in this place, Friday, making acquaintance among the electors.
